American Bar Association Annual Questionnaire enrollment parameters were used to determine the numbers for 1Ls, 2Ls, and 3Ls. 1Ls are categorized as students with 30 or less completed credits. 2Ls are categorized as students with 31-60 completed credits. 3Ls are categorized as students with 61-90 completed credits. The law school does not have a centralized tracking system for students with LGBTQ status or disabilities and so does not provide this data here.

Comments:

The Sturm College of Law employs a letter grade system of A-F. The grades issued in all required courses must have a median of 3.3 and a mean between 3.15 and 3.45. The grades issued in all non-required courses with an enrollment of more than ten students must substantially conform to this mandatory curve. Substantial conformity means that grades cannot deviate more than 0.1 from the mandatory median and mean. If the grades issued in a course of more than 10 students substantially deviate from the mandatory curve, the professor must provide the Associate Dean of Academic Affairs ("Associate Dean") with adequate justification for the deviation. The Associate Dean shall make the final determination of whether an adequate justification exists for the substantial deviation. If the Associate Dean determines that adequate justification does not exist, the professor, the Associate Dean, or the Registrar shall reconfigure the grades. The law school uses letter grades to calculate grade point averages in a four-point numerical system. Letter grades have the numerical values set forth above. A limited number of courses receive pass/no pass grades. When the student receives a passing grade, P, the student has performed at a standard consistent with a grade of C or better. A no pass grade, NP, indicates unacceptable performance and will not count toward the graduation credit hour requirement. Pass and no pass grades do not factor into the student's cumulative law school grade point average.
